

whose incumbents wish to remain for another term). Nan Morrison (margaretamorrison@comcast.net) is the Elections Chair; Debbie Taylor (deborahLtaylor@mac.com) will also serve on the committee. Please contact either of these people if interested.

Bryan also noted that he will be stepping down as President of the Alliance when his term is up in June 2013. If interested in what this position involves, please contact Bryan (bryan@nafisd.org).

Arlington Arts Gallery: Manager Jane Coonce announced that Duc Nguyen, our landlord, as relinquished the gallery space and will be working out of the basement of that space. Therefore, the Arlington Arts Gallery does not have a home. Gallery members will be searching for new space.

Meanwhile, Duc has invited anyone who is interested to exhibit their work in the basement of the former gallery. Contact Jane jane.coonce@verizon.net

Who Does What List: Bryan has prepared an updated list of functions in the Alliance and who performs them. He has emailed the list to members; it will also be posted on the Alliance website.

“Think Like a Child”: The jurying will be February 13 (snow date is February 17). The juror is Lisa Semerad. For a $10 entry fee, artists may enter 2 paintings. Contact Linda Kosovych (lkosovych@gmail.com) for further information. Linda needs 4 people to help with jurying process.

Drop-off of up to two entries each will be on February 13 from 9:00-10:30 AM. Entries must have a label already attached. Pick-up of unaccepted works will be from 3-4:30 PM.

The show will be at Cultural Affairs February 13-April 14; at Cassatt’s April 15-May 20, with the reception on April 22; will move to the Arlington County Board in May-June; and to the Central Library in July. Jean Stark has prepared a think piece on this juried show opportunity that has been distributed to members.

Photography in Shows reminder: Bryan reminded members that photography of any kind is not allowed at Alliance shows and venues, unless it is specified that certain types (such as giclees) are acceptable for certain locations.

Individual Artist pages on Alliance website: If artists wish to update their artist page on our website, please send updated biography and up to 3 photos of your work to Rebecca Croft (rcroft4@verizon.net).

“Vision On!” Update: We need a new organizer for this event, a creative evening at a bar or restaurant (or other venue), perhaps incorporating music, poetry, etc. Please contact Bryan (bryan@nafisd.org) if interested in organizing this event.

Critique Group: Next meeting is Sunday January 22 from 3-4:30 PM at Little Falls Presbyterian Church. Please contact George Bowles (cheybowles@aol.com) to sign up.

Greg Staley photographing at Lee Arts Center: January 20. If you wish to have your work professionally photographed, contact Steven Munoz at the center (Smunoz@arlingtonva.us).

Upcoming Shows:

Black and White Show: See report on page 1.

Spring Artfest, March 23-30, 2012. Director Marie Baumann asked members to consider volunteering for “daily manager” duties, or to present workshops or presentations during the week-long event. If you have an idea or want to volunteer, please contact Marie at snibbortoo@comcast.net.

“Think Like a Child”: See report on page 2.

this popular show will be May 17-20 at St. Andrews Episcopal Church (at Lorcom Lane and Military Rd.). Note the change of venue, as the Alliance is no longer working with the Arlington United Methodist Church in south Arlington.

All works for sale at this show are $75 (not including tax). There are no limits on quantities. Giclees, shrinkwraps, unframed pieces, tabletops, notecards, and calendars are all accepted.
